SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.

- On June 10, 1951, the Central and South China Military and Administrative Committee sent a South China military inspection group, consisting of more than ten persons headed by a non-southerner, to inspect various islands in the Pearl River area. The group included TSENG Sheng, commander of the Kwangtung-Kwangsi Column, and Soviet advisers Ma-lieh-k'o-fu (馬列科夫) and Pi-te-pa-fu (彼得巴夫). On 19 June, while the group was inspecting Shihlung (113-51, 23-07), the jeep in which TSENG Sheng's aides were riding was hit in three places by guerrilla gunfire and one of the aides was slightly wounded.
- On 16 July an eight-man South China investigation group from the Central and South China Military area was sent by the Kwangtung Military District to Lafsami Island (113-48, 22-08) aboard the gunboat SUIHAI (繼海). At Lafsami the group held a meeting with Chinese officials.
- In addition to the units already stationed on Lafsami Island, sixty members of the River Defense Marine Force have been stationed on the island. Most of the ~~sixty~~ are from Shantung.
- The Kwangtung-Kwangsi Column has reinforced T'unghsinchou (通新洲) with a pom-pom gun company, and the number of armored launches has been increased from five to eight.
